INDEX TO VOLUME 5

Alston, P. (See Downes, S.)
Asara, V. Extended employment program, Massachusetts; a preliminary report. 5(1), 55-57.
Bitter, J. (See Goodyear, D.)
Bolton, B. Research utilization of R & D project results with severely handicapped deaf clients. 5(1), 27-39.
Boniface, K. (See DeFlaun, R.)
Bozarth, J. Reactions on evaluation. 5(3), 243-146.
Brinson, L. Notions of consumerism and their application to rehabilitation. 5(2), 118-121.
Burdman, G. Rehabilitation counseling and gerontology: An interdisciplinary approach. 5(2), 99-105.
Cohen, C. Rehabilitation counselors as needed school employers. 5(2), 67-72.
Coleman, N. Sexual information in the rehabilitation process. 5(4), 201-206.
Cooper, M. Predicting rehabilitation outcomes: Some possible contraindications. 5(1), 48-53.
Dee, E. One crucial need in rehabilitation and possible solutions. 5(3), 180-184.
DeFlaun, R. Boniface, K. The role of a NARA counselor. 5(2), 87-91.
Downes, S., McFarland, F., & Alston, P. Survey of the NRCA membership regarding the basis for evaluating counselor performance. 5(4), 196-201.
Duffy, M. Ethical standards and the therapeutic relationship. 5(1), 57-58.
Esser, T. Some perspectives on report writing in the rehabilitation process 5(2), 92-98.
Evans, J. The role of the consumer in rehabilitation. 5(3), 184-188.
Fife, W. Is vocational rehabilitation adequate? 5(2), 114-117.
Foote, J. Effects of paying patients for work in a short term state mental hospital. 5(4), 232-237.
Goodyear, D., and Bitter, J. Goal attainment scaling as a program evaluation measure in rehabilitation. 5(1), 19-26.
Greenwood, R. Assessment of external effects in rehabilitation research. 5(3), 138-142.
Haas, J. Hire the handicapped: A new appeal. 5(3), 174-180.
Hall, F. Annual report to the membership, 1974. 5(3), 159-165.
Hall, F. Are you a professional or a professional in the making? 5(2), 122-125.
Iacono, C. (See Kunce, J.)
Johnson, R. (See Weikel, W.)
Joiner, J. Restrictive counselor role determinants. 5(2), 80-86.
Kennedy, H. A demographic study of rehabilitated and non-rehabilitated clients. 5(4), 238-243.
Kramer, S. Don't be involved or "Let George do it." 5(1), 54-55.
Kunce, J. Iacono, C., and Miller, D. Determination of caseload feasibility, 5(4), 215-219.
Luzader, C. (See Sendroff, P.)
Maynard, M. Three theoretical aging frames of reference: Implications for a rehabilitation counselor's model, 5(4), 207-214.
McDonald, D. The rehabilitation counselor: A resource person to industry; a revitalized approach to selective placement. 5(1), 3-7.
McFarland, F. (See Downes, S.)

INDEX TO VOLUME 5

Alston, P. (See Downes, S.)
Asara, V. Extended employment program, Massachusetts; a preliminary report. 5(1), 55-57.
Bitter, J. (See Goodyear, D.)
Bolton, B. Research utilization of R & D project results with severely handicapped deaf clients. 5(1), 27-39.
Boniface, K. (See DeFlaun, R.)
Bozarth, J. Reactions on evaluation. 5(3), 243-146.
Brinson, L. Notions of consumerism and their application to rehabilitation. 5(2), 118-121.
Burdman, G. Rehabilitation counseling and gerontology: An interdisciplinary approach. 5(2), 99-105.
Cohen, C. Rehabilitation counselors as needed school employers. 5(2), 67-72.
Coleman, N. Sexual information in the rehabilitation process. 5(4), 201-206.
Cooper, M. Predicting rehabilitation outcomes: Some possible contraindications. 5(1), 48-53.
Dee, E. One crucial need in rehabilitation and possible solutions. 5(3), 180-184.
DeFlaun, R. Boniface, K. The role of a NARA counselor. 5(2), 87-91.
Downes, S., McFarland, F., & Alston, P. Survey of the NRCA membership regarding the basis for evaluating counselor performance. 5(4), 196-201.
Duffy, M. Ethical standards and the therapeutic relationship. 5(1), 57-58.
Esser, T. Some perspectives on report writing in the rehabilitation process 5(2), 92-98.
Evans, J. The role of the consumer in rehabilitation. 5(3), 184-188.
Fife, W. Is vocational rehabilitation adequate? 5(2), 114-117.
Foote, J. Effects of paying patients for work in a short term state mental hospital. 5(4), 232-237.
Goodyear, D., and Bitter, J. Goal attainment scaling as a program evaluation measure in rehabilitation. 5(1), 19-26.
Greenwood, R. Assessment of external effects in rehabilitation research. 5(3), 138-142.
Haas, J. Hire the handicapped: A new appeal. 5(3), 174-180.
Hall, F. Annual report to the membership, 1974. 5(3), 159-165.
Hall, F. Are you a professional or a professional in the making? 5(2), 122-125.
Iacono, C. (See Kunce, J.)
Johnson, R. (See Weikel, W.)
Joiner, J. Restrictive counselor role determinants. 5(2), 80-86.
Kennedy, H. A demographic study of rehabilitated and non-rehabilitated clients. 5(4), 238-243.
Kramer, S. Don't be involved or "Let George do it." 5(1), 54-55.
Kunce, J. Iacono, C., and Miller, D. Determination of caseload feasibility, 5(4), 215-219.
Luzader, C. (See Sendroff, P.)
Maynard, M. Three theoretical aging frames of reference: Implications for a rehabilitation counselor's model, 5(4), 207-214.
McDonald, D. The rehabilitation counselor: A resource person to industry; a revitalized approach to selective placement. 5(1), 3-7.
McFarland, F. (See Downes, S.)

Miller, D. (See Kunce, J.)

Neely, C. Rehabilitation counselor attitudes: A study to compare the attitudes of general and special counselors. 5(3), 153-158.

Newell, D. Clothing problems for the physically handicapped woman. 5(2), 112-114.

O'Connor, S. A rejoiner to Joiner. 5(3), 166-167.

Olshansky, S. Mental retardation: Another view. 5(3), 131-137.

Pankowski, J. (See Pankowski, M.)

Pankowski, M., and Pankowsi, J. Why a master's degree in rehabilitation counseling? 5(3), 147-152.

Randolph, A., and Zerega, W., Jr. Out-of-session tasks (homework) for the clients of rehabilitation. 5(2), 73-79.

Rule, W., & Wright, K. A. new slant to establish values: Accountability and counselor reward. 5(4), 191-195.

Sendroff, P., Wolin, S., Luzader, C., and Williams, S. Clinical supervision for rehabilitation counselors. 5(4), 220-232.

Seybold, J. Understanding the traumatic paraplegic. 5(1), 8-12.

Sheppard, A. The relationship between selected demographic variables and student-client participation in a cooperative school program. 5(1), 40-47.

Thompson, D. and Wilson, K. Model for vocational evaluation of high-risk rehabilitation clients. 5(3), 168-173.

Weikel, W. A. and Johnson, R. simple model for identifying probable failures in a rehabilitation program. 5(2), 106-111.

Williams, S. (See Sendroff, P.)

Wilson, K. (See Thompson, D.)

Wolin, S. (See Sendroff, P.)

Wright, K. (See Rule, W.)

Zerega, W., Jr. (See Randolph, A.)